

American Society of Media Photographers Arizona Phoenix

One of the greatest challenges for the location photographer is never quite knowing the amount of space the client will provide you. Sometimes a scout day just isn't in anyone's calendar. You know your gear and you've got a pretty good feel for the technical, but what do you do when suddenly presented with the proverbial shoebox? Your go-to lighting setup in a studio may look completely different in cramped quarters. If you're used to shooting in a larger space, how do you get a similar quality of light in a smaller one?

This month, join ASMP AZ/PHX and speaker Scott Myers to get ready for your close-up! In this talk, Scott will offer insight on the ways to best shape light in smaller spaces, helping you better control your light and achieve the results you're looking for. Whether you're beginning your studio lighting journey or looking to expand your existing tool belt, this presentation should help you light more confidently in spaces of all sizes.
